

WHAT IS CLAIMED IS:

1. A symmetrically contoured support pillow formed essentially in an inverted U-shape, comprising essentially a semi-circular crown and a pair of spaced symmetrical legs extending downwardly and outwardly divergently away from the crown, the legs having lower ends which are curved inwardly towards each other and forming toes, each leg having a convex bulge extending inwardly in the space between the two legs, the bulges extending towards each other, the resulting space between the legs as formed by the convex bulges being essentially in the shape of an hourglass.
2. A symmetrically contoured support pillow as set forth in Claim 1 wherein the crown is designed to support the head of a woman who is lying between the legs of the pillow on her side such that one of the bulges is received in a curvature of the back of the woman whereas the other bulge is received in a tummy area of the woman.
3. A symmetrically contoured support pillow as set forth in Claim 1 wherein the toes are moved towards each other to create an overlapping condition, wherein the head of the woman is adapted to rest on the overlapping toes while one bulge is received in the curvature of the back of the woman and the other bulge is received in the tummy area of the woman.